

Websites that hire bookkeepers to work from home:

Accountingdepartment.com: If you want a full-time at home job with benefits, this is one of the first places you should apply. AccountingDepartment.com prides itself on hiring great bookkeepers and controllers, and they offer a full benefits package to their full-time employees.

Belay: While they don't specialize in bookkeeping or accounting, Belay hires at-home bookkeepers as part of their general virtual assistant talent pool.

BookMinders: They provide bookkeeping and accounting services with an emphasis on QuickBooks. One thing to be aware of with BookMinders is the geography restriction: you would need to be within driving distance of Philadelphia or Pittsburgh to be able to work for them.

ClickAccounts: If you're an accountant or bookkeeper, this website is for you. They only hire in these types of roles. The application involves a resume and cover letter.

ClickNwork: This website hires for all kinds of professional roles, including bookkeeping. They say in their FAQs to go ahead and apply to work for them, and they'll be in contact if they have a good spot for you. (This might be a good place to start if you've got other administrative skills you want to use for work at home, too.)

Bateman & Co: They offer part-time and full-time work from home positions. This can be a helpful resource for accountants. However, it is important to note the job opportunities on this site are only open to residents of Texas.
